

Two Exciting Weeks in the Land of Fish and Rice

The Amazing Ningbo, China

Sign-up for the Summer 2027 class (3 credit-hour course)

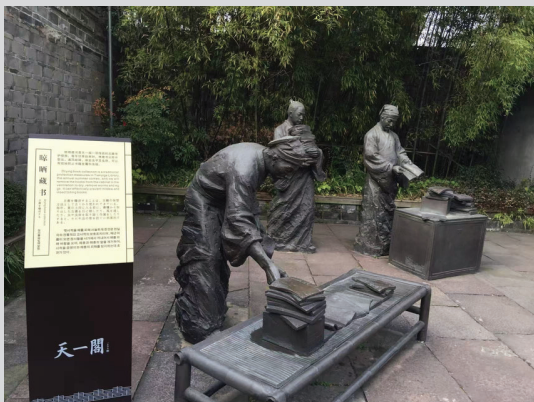

HPAM 3650/7650: Comparative Health Systems: China

When: Maymester, May 9 (Depart from US) to May 23 (return from Ningbo)

You will also visit cultural heritage and historical sites, including Tianyi Pavilion, the oldest surviving private library in Asia, and Xuedou Temple, where the largest Happy Buddha sits.

Estimated Program fee: $2,500; Tuition: $1,100; Other UGA fees: ~$100. Program fee includes lodging in hotels (double occupancy), lunch on selected program days, and program-related transportation in China.

Ten scholarships of $500 each are available, with generous support from the National Association of Chinese-Americans (contact Dr. Chen for more information)

Compare and contrast the health systems of the USA, the UK, and China, while staying in Ningbo, China!

What do you do?

- Discuss China's health sector reforms with policy makers, researchers, and health insurance administrators;
- Learn the history of the Chinese health system from professors of the local universities, including the University of Nottingham Ningbo China;
- Learn how China moved from the barefoot-doctor era to near-universal health insurance coverage in a single generation;
- Visit tertiary hospitals, community health centers, and village clinics;
- Understand the political and economic aspects of Universal Health Coverage.

Additional expenses (not covered by program fee): Round-trip airfare (US to China), transit and personal travel expenses, dinners, lunch on non-program days, personal expenses, and pocket money. See the cost estimates on the Study-Away website.

OGE offers a limited number of financial assistance awards for participation in Study-Away programs. Application for scholarship is due in October.

For more information, please contact: Dr. Zhuo (Adam) Chen, Department of Health Policy and Management, at zchen1@uga.edu